

PRIVACY POLICY

SUMMARY

Rodrigue Molyneaux Winery is committed to preserving the privacy of the users of this Web Site (the “Site”). We will not sell your personal information to other companies. Whether you receive email from us is your choice; let us know at any time if you do not want to get email from us and we will no longer send it to you. If you have questions about our policy, please ask. You can find details on how to contact us in the “Contact Us” section.

If you register for our newsletter list we may ask for personal information in order to provide the services you request. You may revise or cancel your subscription to any of those services at any time. To revise your subscription information, please e-mail us at info@rmwinery.com. To cancel your subscription, please “Unsubscribe” at the bottom of each newsletter. We will not sell the information you provide to anyone.

For more details on our Privacy Policy, please see the text below.

DETAILS OF PRIVACY POLICY OF Rodrigue Molyneaux Winery

a. Your identifying information is collected whenever you submit such information to the Site (for example, when registering). Information collected from you includes without limitation your contact information (name, address, city, state, country, zip, province (if applicable), password (that you select), birthdate and e-mail address. This information (other than your password, which we store but do not share) is used by us for marketing purposes and to track and verify compliance with applicable laws, agreements and policies. This information may be shared with other direct marketing and consumer research entities within Rodrigue Molyneaux Winery and third parties, such as promotion partners and consultants for these purposes only. We may use other companies and individuals to perform functions on our behalf, such as sweepstakes and contest administration. When registering for such sweepstakes and contests, you may be redirected to those companies’ or individuals’ websites. They will have access to information needed to perform their functions. Under some circumstances, information may also be disclosed to third parties such as governmental agencies for law enforcement and compliance purposes, and when appropriate, to identify, contact or bring legal action against someone who may be causing injury to or interference with ours, or others’, rights or property. You can request correction of inaccuracies in the information by contacting the appropriate person indicated on the Site.

b. As do most major web sites, this Site uses cookies and may use other automated information collection means. Cookies are information about you from the Site that is stored on your hard drive. Cookies save you time because you do not need to reenter manually the information stored on your hard drive. Cookies also help us upgrade the Site by showing when and how users utilize the Site.

Rodrigue Molyneaux

c. By submitting personal information, you are agreeing that we may communicate with you via email, facsimile, telephone or other means regarding the Site, your use of it, and your participation in and the terms of our programs.

d. The Site may also use IP addresses for the above purposes, and to analyze trends, administer the site, track users' movement, and gather broad demographic information for aggregate use.

e. The Site uses reasonable security procedures to maintain the confidentiality of information. However, because the Internet is a public and open facility, no security measures can guarantee complete confidentiality under all circumstances. To help preserve your confidentiality, you are responsible for maintaining the confidentiality of your user name and password. This privacy policy statement does not create any contractual or legal rights on your behalf.